Question #8 of 42

Question ID: 1459305

Bertha Mader, CFA, received proxy material related to a hostile takeover attempt of Danube Industries by Balnet Company. She holds shares of Danube in most of her client accounts. Mader has a high opinion of Danube's management because they have run the company successfully and have always responded directly and honestly to her inquiries. She is not acquainted with Balnet's management team but knows they have a reputation for improving the bottom line at the companies they acquire, partly because they tend to replace upper management at their targets and assume their functions. Balnet's offer is 60% higher than the price of Danube shares before the announcement. Danube's management has contacted Mader and requested that she vote the shares she controls against the takeover because the management is concerned for their jobs and for the welfare of the company. To comply with the Code and Standards, Mader should:

A) delegate her proxy vote to another member of her firm due to the conflict of interest created when she was contacted by management.

B) vote for the takeover if it is in the best interest of Danube's shareholders, regardless of the consequences to current management.

C) vote for the takeover if she can get assurance that Danube's management team will remain in place.

Question #13 of 42

Question ID: 1459324

Rey Sanchez, CFA, covers the specialty chemical industry for Rock Advisory Associates. Until today he has had a buy recommendation on ChemStar, and many of the firm's customers have purchased shares based upon his recommendation. The firm's client accounts are divided into two fundamental categories: trading and buy-and-hold accounts. The firm holds discretionary trading authority over the trading accounts, but not the buy-and-hold accounts. Sanchez has recently come to believe that the fundamentals are changing for the worse at ChemStar, and is preparing a sell recommendation. He calls a meeting of the firm's portfolio managers with accounts holding ChemStar and tells them of the pending release of the sell recommendation. On this basis, the portfolio managers sell all positions in the discretionary accounts but not in the buy-and-hold accounts. Sanchez completes and mails the report to all clients two days later, and, shortly thereafter, many of the buy-and-hold accounts sell their ChemStar positions. With regard to these actions, Sanchez is:

A) in violation of the Standard on Fair Dealing; the portfolio managers are in violation of the Standard on Fair Dealing.

B) in violation of the Standard on Fair Dealing; the portfolio managers are not in violation of the Standard on Fair Dealing.

C) not in violation of the Standard on Fair Dealing; the portfolio managers are in violation of the Standard on Fair Dealing.

Question #14 of 42

Question ID: 1459302

Chuck Hill, CFA, the financial manager of Niseron Corp., has just learned that Niseron's quarterly net income will fall well short of consensus analyst expectations. Hill decides that he should immediately notify analysts covering Niseron of this negative development. He calls two particular analysts first who have followed Niseron stock for several years and have alerted Hill to important developments at competing firms. Failing to notify these analysts might damage Hill's ability to monitor his competition, to the detriment of his own shareholders. Under CFA Institute's Code and Standards, Hill should most appropriately:

A) notify no analysts until he is ready to issue the final numbers for the quarter.

B) notify the two analysts first because their information adds value for Niseron's shareholders.

C) issue a press release regarding Niseron's earnings prior to calling analysts.

Question #27 of 42

Question ID: 1469265

Jack Stevens is employed by a company to provide investment advice to participants in the firm's 401(k) plan. One of the investment options is a stable value fund run by the company. Stevens' research indicates that the fund is far riskier and less liquid than the typical stable value fund and has a fundamental asset value lower than the book value of the assets. He tells Jessica Cox, the head of employee benefits, about his research, and indicates that he will advise new employees to not invest in the fund and will advise employees who already own the fund to reduce their holdings in the fund. Cox points out that the fund is not in any current danger because there are very few redemptions requested of the fund. Cox also states that a sell recommendation may become a self fulfilling prophecy, causing investors to redeem their shares and forcing the fund to liquidate, which in turn will cause the remaining investors to receive less than their promised value. Stevens agrees with this assessment and feels his fiduciary duty is to all employees. Stevens should:

A) continue to recommend that new investors do not invest in the fund and existing investors reduce their holdings.

B) continue to recommend that new investors do not invest in the fund, but not advise existing investors to reduce their holdings.

C) tell investors he cannot give advice on the fund because of a conflict of interest.

Bjorn Sandvik, CFA, completes a research report with a buy recommendation for Acorn Properties. In the early afternoon, Sandvik e-mails this recommendation to his clients who had responded to his request that they provide Sandvik with their e-mail addresses. Later that afternoon, the printed recommendation is forwarded to the postal service for normal delivery to all customers, who receive the mailing 1 to 3 days later. Sandvik has:

A) not violated the Code and Standards because he acted fairly in disseminating research information to his clients.

B) violated the Code and Standards by sending the e-mail recommendation in advance of the printed report.

C) violated the Code and Standards by sending the e-mail recommendation to only some of his clients.

Question #29 of 42

Question ID: 1459296

Jack Harris, a CFA candidate, is a telecommunications analyst at Hasten Securities. Based upon his analysis of Midwest Telecom, he changes his recommendation of the company's common stock from "hold" to "sell." Before disseminating his recommendation and the reason for the change to Hasten's clients, Harris informs several portfolio managers at Hasten, whom he knows personally own Midwest stock, of the changed recommendation. Several days later, Hasten communicates the change in investment recommendation on Midwest to clients known to have bought Midwest and those who currently hold the stock.

Jane White, CFA, is a broker at Hasten Securities. One of her clients places a buy order contrary to the current recommendation on Midwest. After advising her client of the recommendation, she executes the transaction.

According to Standard III(B), Fair Dealing, which of the following statements about Harris and White's actions is CORRECT?

A) Both Harris and White violated Standard III(B).

B) Harris violated Standard III(B), but White did not violate Standard III(B).

C) Neither Harris nor White violated Standard III(B).

Question #30 of 42

Question ID: 1469263

A company has a defined benefit plan that is currently under-funded. The plan sponsor has instructed the portfolio manager of the plan to invest more aggressively to bring the funding level up to an adequate amount. Which of the following statements best describes the course of action the portfolio manager should take? The portfolio manager should:

A) invest more aggressively because his fiduciary duties lie with the plan sponsor.

B) not invest more aggressively because this is not the method used to increase the funding level of a plan.

C) not invest more aggressively since this may expose the plan to too much risk and may not be in the best interest of the plan's beneficiaries.

Question #35 of 42

Question ID: 1459298

Steve Phillips is the new director of equity research for a brokerage company. He receives a call from a reporter at the Financial News, a weekly publication that comes out on Mondays. The reporter explains the relationship she had with his predecessor. They would share information that they both learned on stocks—the former director would benefit the company's clients by news he obtained from the reporter in exchange for information he gave to her. The former director could ask her not to publish any information he gave her until after a certain date, ensuring that the brokerage clients would be informed before the publication date. After the conversation, Phillips called the former director, who confirmed that the reporter was trustworthy with respect to honoring the agreement for delaying publication until clients have been informed. Philips should:

A) disclose research not yet disclosed to clients, as long as the reporter promises not to publish the information until after all clients have received the research, and the reporter provides valuable information of her own.

B) not disclose any research even after it has been disseminated to clients regardless of the value of the information that the reporter may have.

C) only disclose research that has already been disseminated to clients, as long as the reporter is providing valuable information of her own.

Question #36 of 42

Question ID: 1459321

Calvin Moore, CFA, has been transferred from the brokerage house of the Browning Company to the portfolio management department. In portfolio management, Moore learns that clients are grouped into three divisions according to portfolio value, divided as follows:

- Group 1 up to $10,000
- Group 2 from $10,001 to $100,000
- Group 3 more than $100,000

When recommendations are announced or trades are initiated, a particular sequence is followed in communicating to these groups. At the next monthly meeting, Moore suggests that the sequencing practice is a breach of CFA Institute Standards. One of Moore's co-workers replies that the grouping approach helps the company in applying the Standard regarding portfolio recommendations. He further suggests that because Browning's overall performance is more strongly affected by actions taken on the high value portfolios, that these portfolios should take priority over the small value portfolios. What should Moore do? Moore should:

A) prepare a written report to the CEO describing the problem.

B) do nothing since there is no breach with the Standards.

C) disassociate himself from the problem and seek legal advice.
